Acknowledgments

This work is in essence my Master's thesis. A few minor modifications have been made. It could not have been completed without the generous assistance of numerous individuals. Foremost among these is my senior supervisor, Dr. Brian Hayden, whose ideas I have always found challenging. The other members of my committee, Drs. Jack Nance, Mark Skinner, and Roderick Sprague, were also invaluable, and their comments are much appreciated. Dr. Sprague in addition provided me with unpublished data that would otherwise have been unavailable. I wish to thank Dr. Roy Carlson, Director of Archaeology Press, for his editorial services, as well as for the use of his personal library. I would especially like to thank a number of museum personnel for their help in facilitating access to the collections and documentation of their respective institutions; these include: Jaymie Brauer of the American Museum of Natural History, Julie Stein of the Burke Museum, Betty Long of the Maryhill Museum, Robert Pammatt of the Canadian Museum of Civilization, Randy Manuel of the Penticton Museum, Dan Bruce of the Kelowna Centennial Museum, Lynn Duckworth of the Kamloops Museum, Joyce Johnson of the Department of Anthropology at the University of British Columbia, Barbara Winter of the Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Simon Fraser University, and Dan Savard and Nancy Romaine of the B.C. Provincial Museum. I am very grateful to all of these individuals for the assistance that I received.

I would like to thank Simon Fraser University for the financial support I received during my M.A. programme, without which it would not have been possible to complete this work. I owe a debt of gratitude to my parents for their unending support. Thanks to Natalie Munro, Hartley Odwak, and Greg Richmond for their support, and for putting up with sections of this work that I occasionally inflicted on them in its guise as my thesis. Finally, I would like to acknowledge and thank Joanna Ostapkowicz for her encouragement and confidence in my work.
